Be a Top 100 Company

What can you learn from these Top 100 Companies to work for in 2010 listed by Forbes?

The quick answer is that many of the companies on the list have put their employees first. Here are some examples;

SAS, a computer software company built around co-founders Jim Goodnight motto of "trust between our employees and the company." To show they care about their employees SAS provides unique benefits like child care, a gym and a library, medical staff, unlimited sick days and a summer camp for children.

Grocery store Nugget Market offers employees a 10% discount on $500 dollars worth of groceries every month.

DreamWorks Animation SK has a culture of collaboration and openness.

So my tip this week is to spend a little time perusing through this top 100 list and see what makes these companies so special. Then implement some of their ideas in your company and work towards getting on next year's list.

Notes / Actions to Take:

Make Your Dreams Come True Day

Believe it or not, today is 'Make Your Dream Come True Day' – I don't know who started this or why they started it ... but let's work with it.

This day should draw your attention towards doing something to realize your dream ... but you need to make sure you have a dream first. After all, we all have a dream of doing or accomplishing something, or going somewhere to see something in this world ... or at least we should.

So my leadership tip for you this week is to do something today (or tomorrow) that takes you one step closer to 'making your dream come true. Then find someone else on your team that has a dream and do something for them that will help them take one step closer to making their dream come true.

Dreams are good stuff ... this country was built on dreams so don't let us or yourself down ... dreams can come true if you work hard at achieving them.
